To Whom It May Concern,

Re: Letter of Recommendation – Mr Abdullo Pulatov

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter in support of Mr Abdullo Pulatov, who has successfully completed his PhD at Loughborough Business School, Loughborough University, and is due to graduate in July 2026. As his supervisor, I have had the privilege of witnessing Abdullo's development as a researcher and scholar throughout his doctoral training, and I can recommend him with confidence.

Abdullo's doctoral thesis examines the interactions between institutions and economic growth in Eastern European countries — a topic of considerable scholarly and policy significance. His research demonstrates both theoretical depth and rigorous analytical thinking. He has engaged critically and independently with a complex body of literature, producing work that makes a meaningful and original contribution to our understanding of how institutional frameworks shape economic outcomes in transitional and emerging contexts. The quality of his thesis is a testament to his intellectual capability and his commitment to producing research of the highest standard.

Beyond his research, Abdullo has demonstrated an impressive breadth of professional competence. Whilst undertaking his doctoral studies, he actively contributed to teaching and marking responsibilities within Loughborough Business School, a reflection of his willingness to engage fully with the academic community and develop the broader skill set expected of an early career academic. His students and colleagues benefited from his subject matter expertise and his conscientious approach to his responsibilities.

Abdullo is an able, diligent, and intellectually curious researcher. He approaches his work with professionalism and a genuine passion for advancing knowledge in his field. I have no hesitation in recommending him for academic, research, or professional positions commensurate with his expertise and qualifications. I am confident that he will continue to make a strong contribution to whichever environment he joins.

I would be pleased to provide any further information if required. Please feel free to contact me should you require any further information via A.H.Ahmad@lboro.ac.uk.

Yours sincerely

Dr Ahmad Hassan Ahmad
